“died a good death”

published in Boulder, CO Daily Camera

Leigh Kirkland died a "good death", peaceful and with an open heart, on December 8, 2011. Born on May 6, 1946 in New Haven, CT, she moved to Boulder in the late 70's with her daughter, Jessie Hannah Kirkland, who survives her along with her loving mother, Miriam Lloyd, brothers Harry,

Tommy, and Billy Kirkland, sister Mary Lloyd Szumski, and grandchildren Phineas and Julia. She was a devoted student of the teachings of Buddhism and the late Chogyam Trungpa, Rinpoche. Jin Shin Jyutsu was her art and passion. These spiritual and energetic paths help dissolve obstacles and deepened her already open heart.
